Specific issues of concern on Stage 2

1. Preparations for major road works on the Healy Pass are underway. There are two (2) cuttings across the road at approx 34 and 35km into the stage. At the time of writing they were surfaced with a loose material.

2. It is possible that road surfacing works may be underway at the time of the race. Information regarding this will be provided at the managers meeting

3. There is substantial de-lamination of the road surface on the descent from the county bounds from the top of the climb to a point at 118km approx into the stage. The resulting holes are random in location and in size ranging from a couple of inches to a foot or more in length. They tend to be longer and in the direction of the slope rather than circular as a typical pothole

4. The junction at Baile Bhuairne (105.2km) joins to the N22. This is a very busy road. While arrangements with An Garda Siochana are in place an urgent incident will take precedence over the race. Exercise caution here. The junction design makes it slightly awkward to take the turn (see photo's below). The location of the traffic island and the street furniture on it make this a substantial hazard

5. There are two pinch points on the route in Kilgarvan village (134.4km). While the road is not substantially narrowed the structures stick out into the roadway.
